

Chemistry is what happens when we breathe, when we touch, when we react, and even our behaviour with others is chemistry at some level.

This exhibition, based on the periodic table of elements, stems from community action and artistic reaction. Science and art have always been companions, sparking human creativity, showing there are different pathways to discovery and understanding.

Starting in Coolum High, this community artwork has contributions from Coolum Primary & Peregian Springs State Schools and a broad range of community which reflects our desire to connect and how art is a great opportunity to achieve that connection. This table is the art and science of community, and shows how we all can somehow fit together.
