

community art exhibition

COOLART GALLERY
beach rd
COOLUM

opens

FRIDAY 23rd
JANUARY 5-7 pm.

+ paint your own sign
workshop on Saturday 24th 10am-1pm

community art exhibition

COOLART GALLERY
beach rd
COOLUM

opens

FRIDAY 23rd
JANUARY 5-7 pm.

+ paint your own sign
workshop on Saturday 24th 10am-1pm

community art exhibition

COOLART GALLERY
beach rd
COOLUM

opens

FRIDAY 23rd
JANUARY 5-7 pm.

+ paint your own sign
workshop on Saturday 24th 10am-1pm

community art exhibition

COOLART GALLERY
beach rd
COOLUM

opens

FRIDAY 23rd
JANUARY 5-7 pm.

+ paint your own sign
workshop on Saturday
24th 10am-1pm

Sign Language – the art of protest is an unusual art exhibition displaying artworks and signage highlighting the Coolum community’s fight against Sekisui’s proposed high-rise development in Yaroomba and about council amending the planning scheme behind closed doors.

The artwork in Sign Language is community work which has been displayed and curated from the front yards and fences around Coolum and Yaroomba. It represents an incredibly diverse outpouring of expression and passion from the Coolum community with creative and clever use of fonts, typography, colours and images on a range of materials like cars, surfboards, walls, doors, fences and coreflute.

“Sign Language – the art of protest” will open on Friday January 23 from 5pm – 7pm in the laneway next to Joe Cool’s CoolArt Gallery, 5 Beach Rd, Coolum. Many artworks will be for sale or bring your ideas and paint your own sign on Saturday 24th 10am-1pm in the laneway..

www.coolumxhistory.com/sign-language/

Sign Language – the art of protest is an unusual art exhibition displaying artworks and signage highlighting the Coolum community’s fight against Sekisui’s proposed high-rise development in Yaroomba and about council amending the planning scheme behind closed doors.

The artwork in Sign Language is community work which has been displayed and curated from the front yards and fences around Coolum and Yaroomba. It represents an incredibly diverse outpouring of expression and passion from the Coolum community with creative and clever use of fonts, typography, colours and images on a range of materials like cars, surfboards, walls, doors, fences and coreflute.

“Sign Language – the art of protest” will open on Friday January 23 from 5pm – 7pm in the laneway next to Joe Cool’s CoolArt Gallery, 5 Beach Rd, Coolum. Many artworks will be for sale or bring your ideas and paint your own sign on Saturday 24th 10am-1pm in the laneway..

www.coolumxhistory.com/sign-language/

Sign Language – the art of protest is an unusual art exhibition displaying artworks and signage highlighting the Coolum community’s fight against Sekisui’s proposed high-rise development in Yaroomba and about council amending the planning scheme behind closed doors.

The artwork in Sign Language is community work which has been displayed and curated from the front yards and fences around Coolum and Yaroomba. It represents an incredibly diverse outpouring of expression and passion from the Coolum community with creative and clever use of fonts, typography, colours and images on a range of materials like cars, surfboards, walls, doors, fences and coreflute.

“Sign Language – the art of protest” will open on Friday January 23 from 5pm – 7pm in the laneway next to Joe Cool’s CoolArt Gallery, 5 Beach Rd, Coolum. Many artworks will be for sale or bring your ideas and paint your own sign on Saturday 24th 10am-1pm in the laneway..

www.coolumxhistory.com/sign-language/

Sign Language – the art of protest is an unusual art exhibition displaying artworks and signage highlighting the Coolum community’s fight against Sekisui’s proposed high-rise development in Yaroomba and about council amending the planning scheme behind closed doors.

The artwork in Sign Language is community work which has been displayed and curated from the front yards and fences around Coolum and Yaroomba. It represents an incredibly diverse outpouring of expression and passion from the Coolum community with creative and clever use of fonts, typography, colours and images on a range of materials like cars, surfboards, walls, doors, fences and coreflute.

“Sign Language – the art of protest” will open on Friday January 23 from 5pm – 7pm in the laneway next to Joe Cool’s CoolArt Gallery, 5 Beach Rd, Coolum. Many artworks will be for sale or bring your ideas and paint your own sign on Saturday 24th 10am-1pm in the laneway..

www.coolumxhistory.com/sign-language/